

Deploying code in a live environment

- Developers are working on features for application using version control such as Git.
- When a feature is complete, it will see a code review and QA before being deployed to Staging.
- Once on staging it will receive further quality assurance prior to being deployed to the live production application.
- small feature update's and fixes being deployed daily will keep integration continuous.

